SUMMARY

An aspiring entrepreneur interested in finance, real estate, consumer psychology, and human behaviour. With research and internship experiences at Cornell, MIT, leading corporates, that taught me to question assumptions, understand people, analyse problems, and turn insights into action. From winning Best Business Idea at IIT Madras to building a 11,000-follower sports community and volunteering with social sector, I've developed initiative, adaptability, and a hands-on approach to learning. I hope to combine analytical thinking, creativity, and an understanding of people and markets to build ventures that create meaningful value as a conscious leader.

EXPERIENCE

Success Gyan, Chennai — Intern | Jun 2024 – Jul 2024

- Rotated across marketing, lead generation, customer service, HR, and product management within one of India's largest transformation-education companies, gaining hands-on exposure to the coaching and e-commerce industries.
- Developed marketing plans and advertising campaigns, and resolved 10+ customer service requests per day, building direct fluency in customer behaviour and retention.
- Served as crew for two multi-day live programs of ~300 participants each: Millionaire Mindset Intensive (beliefs and money psychology) and Guerrilla Business Intensive (disruptive growth through sales and marketing), supporting operations for large live audiences.
- Developed sales and distribution strategy for digital products and services from inside a functioning funnel.

The Dalai Lama Center for Ethics & Transformative Values at MIT — Research Intern | Jun 2026 – Jul 2026

- Investigated how digital stimulation affects the attention, emotional wellbeing, and inner lives of young people.
- Produced five deliverables: research report, Youth Attention & Wellbeing Toolkit, presentation deck, student interview & survey summary, and a public website resource for educators and young people (theintentionalmind.org).
- Developed a framework now shared with educators and students across school, helping both groups examine their relationship with attention, technology, and social media.

RESEARCH & ACADEMIC PROJECTS

Published Research Article with Prof. Daniel W. Hooker, Cornell University | Jan 2025 – Feb 2026
The Health Industry Is Lying to You: Why You Can't Trust the Label Anymore

- Researched and wrote "The Health Industry Is Lying to You: Why You Can't Trust the Label Anymore" — an investigation of labeling practices, public perception, and institutional trust in the food & consumer products industry; published on Republic World.
- Strengthened analytical writing, research methodology, and academic argumentation through sustained collaboration with a university researcher.

Cornell University Guest Class Presentation | February 2026

- Led a university class discussion on deceptive practices in the consumer goods industry; presented on the scientific mechanisms, public perception, and consumer impact of GLP-1 medications.

HUSMUN — Model United Nations | 2024 – 2025

- Competed across inter-school MUN conferences over two years; earned an Honourable Mention. Strengthened public speaking, negotiation, and policy analysis.
